

HENSCHEL COMMUNICATIONS

One throat to choke.

Your phones, your internet, your IT — from one Delaware team that actually picks up the phone.

Everybody hates their phone vendor. The finger-pointing. The “that’s your IT guy’s problem.”
The 1-800 hold music.

We built the alternative: a business phone system that lives inside Microsoft Teams — installed, managed, and answered by the same local team that handles your computers.

Why businesses switch

Works where your team works

Calls, chat, and video in one app — on desk, laptop, or mobile. Your crew takes the office line anywhere in the country. No second app to learn.

One local team, one bill

Phones, internet, and computers under one roof. When something breaks there’s exactly one number to call — and it’s answered ten minutes from your door, not three time zones away.

Grows the way you grow

Local numbers in any area code, toll-free, unlimited scaling — from a two-person office to teams across the country. Add a user in minutes, not work orders.

We run our business on it

This isn’t a product we resell and forget. Henschel Technologies runs on Henschel Communications. If it wasn’t good enough for us, we wouldn’t sell it to you.

Start with phones. Stay for everything.

Most clients meet us through their phone system — then hand us their computers, their backups, and their headaches too. One relationship, fully covered.

Get a free communications review

We’ll look at what you’re paying now, show you what it should cost, and map the switch — free, no pitch deck required.

henscheltech.com • Ask for Louie